Igual soy yo, pero @tetuanvalley lo fundó @luisriverag y @abarrera hace ya más de 12 años...

Luis Rivera @luisriverag · Apr 26

Replying to @abarrera @gelito and 2 others

Si @Forbes hubiese hecho los deberes sabrían que según el @washingtonpost la fundadora es @kmelan 🙄

Dicho lo cual, creo es maravilloso ellos y otros como @btkutz, @jmcobian, @adavideo, @karelessan y @camilapolens hayan sudado la camiseta suficiente para que entre la duda

MENTORS: THE GOOD, THE BAD, AND THE UGLY

TECH CITY NEWS, NOVEMBER 2ND, 2016

I have mentored hundreds of entrepreneurs from dozens of countries. Pretty much every flavor, from MBA graduates or successful professionals that discovered they want to suffer the freedom to start from scratch, to young Developers in Accelerator Programs across Europe. The lost causes, the predictable success stories and everything in between. Half probably don't remember me, a few hate me, too many take my advice too seriously.

I've managed dozens of mentors that gave up the time they didn't have for their families to help the next generation in many of these programs. They obviously also had an opinion on how to manage a business to support entrepreneurs launching businesses.

And as a consequence of launching my first FinTech startup 3 years ago - ETFmatic, with both the benefits and challenges of having never worked in Financial Services, I've dealt with as many idiots that wasted my energy as geniuses that we couldn't have survived without. And, truth be told, geniuses that could have ended us and idiots that we owe being alive to.
